It is mid January in Minnesota. Luckily for the shooters, the wind was non existent, i.e. a calm before a storm with 45 mph winds predicted within the hour and the temperature was in the high 20's. The forecast for the evening have temperatures dropping by 20+ degrees. There was just a dash of sunshine on occasion. The consensus was that the shooting conditions bordered on ideal. Most were able to shoot from their positions with only heavy sweaters or the equivalent. The building was actually quite comfortable.

The Gods were smiling on us this day.

Welcome Bob Midthun to the group. He shot a Ruger to get his first taste of Free Pistol. Given this is a mid winter match, more liberty was taken with the choice of equipment hence pistols were used that tend to be safe queens during much of the year. This resulted in some surprises with a trigger group failing on one pistol and some happy results with others.
